JNESO District Council 1 Endorses Bonnie Watson Coleman for Congress

NORTH BRUNSWICK – Today, the Board of Directors for JNESO District Council 1 announced its unanimous endorsement of Bonnie Watson Coleman for Congress in the 12th Congressional District. JNESO is a professional healthcare union representing 5,000 workers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

“As our state and our country adjusts to the ever-evolving delivery of healthcare, we need someone in Washington who will fight for our members and help ensure that they have the support they need to deliver safe, quality patient care to New Jersey residents,” said Douglas Placa, Executive Director for JNESO.

“Throughout her tenure in the Legislature, Assemblywoman Watson Coleman has maintained a strong record of standing shoulder-to-shoulder with labor and fighting for the issues important to our members. She is an independent-minded woman and the kind of fighter we need in Washington right now. JNESO is proud to endorse Assemblywoman Watson Coleman for Congress,” said Placa.

"I would like to thank the men and women of JNESO and their leadership for endorsing our campaign today," said Watson Coleman. "The working families, nurses, and healthcare workers that make up JNESO's membership are working every day to help families and they deserve representation in Congress that will stand with them in those endeavors. Working families like those in JNESO are the backbone of our communities and I am proud to receive their endorsement in our campaign for Congress."
